Juan Sánchez García joined Reddie & Grose in 2018, having previously worked as an in-house patent attorney for a large French automotive company and for intellectual property firms in France and Spain.

Juan graduated from the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid with a Master's degree in Aeronautical Engineering and qualified as a European Patent Attorney in 2016.

Juan has extensive experience prosecuting European patent applications and filing oppositions and appeals with the European Patent Office, and he has regularly represented his clients at Oral Proceedings in Munich and The Hague. Likewise, he has prepared a significant amount of infringement and clearance opinions. He has worked with small inventors but mostly with large multinational corporations, not only in the automotive field; and notably, he has represented Europe's largest aeronautical company. Juan has also handled patent work in Europe and internationally in industry sectors such as oil extraction methods, tyre manufacturing, exhaust gas recirculation systems, composite materials, optics, tobacco-based consumer products or heat dissipation devices, among others.

As a result of his international profile, Juan is completely fluent in English, Spanish and French.

In his spare time, Juan enjoys golf, ski, travel, reading and spending time with his family and friends.
